

COPEAU WELCOMED TO STAGELAND HERE

Reception to French Theatrical Director Is Held at Metropolitan.

PLANS TO AID CULTURE

Will Bring Vieux Colombier, With Moliere Statue, to New York in Fall.

One more citizen of France was introduced to New York yesterday, and though he was not met by so many people as was Marshal Joffre and M. Viviani, it was a warm welcome that he received. He is Jacques Copeau and he comes to remain in America, but he is the director of the Theatre du Vieux Colombier, which is to open at the Garrick Theatre, 45 West Thirty-fifth street, November 20. Mr. Copeau will sail shortly for France, and when he returns in October he will bring with him all the Vieux Colombier—that enterprise of true dramatic art and of the French theatre—all its actors, musicians, dancers, scenery and stage trappings and its little statue of Moliere, which always stands at the entrance of the theatre. Henceforth Moliere's statue will be at West Thirty-fifth street.

The reception to M. Copeau was at the Metropolitan Opera House, and the hosts were the directors of the French Theatre, Robert Goetz, Otto H. Kahn, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Nicholas Murray Butler, Louis D. Brandeis, Arthur Hays Sulzberger, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Rogers Winthrop, James W. Barry and William Adams Delano. Not all of them were there, but Mr. Copeau was introduced to M. Copeau, and Mr. Kahn to represent the board. Assisting in the reception were the members of the Metropolitan Opera House, and the hosts were the directors of the French Theatre, Robert Goetz, Otto H. Kahn, Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., Nicholas Murray Butler, Louis D. Brandeis, Arthur Hays Sulzberger, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Rogers Winthrop, James W. Barry and William Adams Delano. ### For French Culture.

It would not be here, M. Copeau told his friends, "were it not that I am serving France in all sincerity. I do not wish, as so many managers have done, to carry out a money-making tour of the United States, but to create a living center of French culture. The French Government sent me here to discredit the reputation for frivolity which our theatre has obtained. I am going to the first place only to give a few lectures, not seeking to take any one place, but to meet Mr. Kahn, he offered me the directorship of the French Theatre, and after reflection, realizing the love of your people for France, I resolved to accept."

"Believe me if you are told that I will perform only sad classic plays, I will give you every kind of play, save the gross and vulgar. Classics, farce, pantomime and modern comedy shall pass before your eyes, and you will see that French writers can deal with something besides the eternal triangle."

M. Copeau told the story of the Theatre du Vieux Colombier in Paris, how he and a group of young artists founded it in October, 1912, how they strove to maintain a free, disinterested stage, representing modern France, and giving interpretation to the classical repertoire; how they had simplified scenery, thus cutting down expenses and making it possible to represent the play itself, and how they had suppressed so-called stars, working instead for a well rounded company of modest artists, each feeling his dependency on the whole.

Augustus Thomas made a brief speech, in which he pointed out that the war made a particularly auspicious time for the forming of a new bond between France and America.

New York's Alma Bared.

"And New York is not blind to the things of the Vision, she yearning for them," he said. "Witness the success of such plays as Barrie's 'Cinderella' and 'Peter Pan' and 'The Boy Who Sailed Away' for idealism."

Telegrams of congratulation were read from Ambassador Jusserand and M. Dalmier, Minister of the Beaux Arts.

The annual garden party under the auspices of the board of managers and the Ladies' Auxiliary of the New York Zoological Society was held yesterday afternoon in Bronx Park and attracted a large gathering of persons prominent in society and others interested in the zoological park.

They carried regular army rifles and knapsacks, and were in the front of the administration building before Dr. William T. Hornaday, president of the society, addressed the large silk American flag was presented to the society.

TRINITY SERVICES MARK ANNIVERSARY

War Praised as Just in Sermon at Seventy-first Annual Celebration.

The seventy-first anniversary of the dedication of Trinity Church's present structure was celebrated yesterday, Ascension day. Holy communion was solemnized at 11 o'clock, after which the Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, the rector, preached. The Trinity choir was greatly augmented and was accompanied by an orchestra as it rendered Gounod's Messe Solenne, which is sung in Trinity but once in two years.

Dr. Manning took his text from St. Luke, xlii, 28. He said in part: "Ascension day this year seems almost every nation where the faith of Christ has been accepted and His influence has been most felt engaged in the most colossal, cruel and murderous war the world has ever seen."

"But this does not mean that the power of Jesus Christ has been overthrown, in that His work has failed. In spite of it all we see that His complete rule in this world is nearer than ever before."

"This war is different from all that have preceded it. It is a war against war, for justice, for humanity. The armies that we send into this war and the armies beside which they fight are fighting for the principles which Jesus Christ came into this world to establish and which are the principles of His kingdom. Fearful as are its sufferings, it is drawing the world into a fellowship and brotherhood such as before seemed only a distant dream."

"A war begun in the interests of military despotism has brought us in sight of the federation of mankind."

"The outcome of it will be the sweeping away of autocracy in all its forms and the establishment of democracy and worldwide brotherhood. Two thousand years ago Jesus Christ brought us the gospel of the brotherhood of man. To-day, through the sufferings of war, we stand face to face with it and about to see it realized. To-day, speaking from the throne of God, where he now is, Jesus Christ says: 'Look up and lift up your heads, for your redemption draweth nigh.'"

Dr. Manning's sermon was well received by the congregation, which was one of the largest ever gathered in Trinity Church.
